Writing a Description Web

Directions: Fill in the center box with a word or phrase that tells about your topic. Now add details that tell more about the topic.

The diagram is a description web. It features a central box with a decorative border containing the text "Topic:" and a horizontal line for writing. Five rectangular boxes, each labeled "Detail:" at the top, are arranged around the central box. Each detail box contains five horizontal lines for writing. Lines connect each detail box to the central topic box, forming a web shape.
